Description
"install-client" target was removed in the Makefile which is being used by the "install-python" target. I'm using the gdp repository version with the latest commit hash ac015a81a1d45e8626cd2700ebc7b203f501ea5f. Instead of using install-client as prerequisite in the install-python, I think it should now be install-lib

Oops, my bad — I've been trying to clean up the Debian packages and I accidentally pushed that interim version before it was finished. It should be fixed now (the install-client target is back, in addition to install-lib). Also, I'll have Debian packages prebuilt at <https://gdp.cs.berkeley.edu/redmine/projects/gdp/files> (soon).
